

Tunbridge Wells Commons Conservators: Freedom of Information Act Policy

Tunbridge Wells Commons Conservators are not a named authority under the Freedom of Information Act and are therefore not bound by it.

However, they have agreed to adopt the spirit of the Act. They therefore maintain a catalogue of information which is readily available to the public without the need for a special request. This is available on the website.

Where requests are received for information that is available on the website the applicant will be directed there. Where requests are received for information that is not readily available, this information will be gathered and supplied.

Exemptions to this policy are matters concerning a third party which will remain confidential unless permission is explicitly given by the third party concerned.
